

Measuring Carbon Fixation of Individual Trees

(No. T4-2161)

Principal investigator

Tamir Klein

Faculty of Biochemistry
Department of Plant and Environmental Sciences

Overview

A method to better calculate carbon uptake by trees. Considering not only biomass but also measured by use of presently available sensors other aspects and factors of the trees, to get a more accurate picture of tree carbon uptake. More information available under NDA
